

Guidelines for border traffic during pandemic

Continuously changing pandemic situation makes very difficult to keep everyone informed and updated of the rules and recommendations for the border crossing traffic to Finland. Viking Line Company has no part in the decision making which are made by the authorities in Finland. We are recommending therefore to follow the Finnish border guard authority's (Raja) homepage and their updates on the valid rules for border crossing to Finland:

When and if there are any changes in the rules and recommendations, the latest information can be founded on this page. They are also the authority to get in contact with if any more information or any clarification is need.

The current situation with border crossing, according to authorities, has no limitation for essential travel across the Finnish border - freight transport and logistics personnel during assignments are, at this respect considered, as a part of the essential travel and can therefore cross the border to Finland.

It has also been brought to our attention that, if a driver employed by a Finnish transport company carrying out transport and logistics tasks which are considered important for the Finnish security supply, can also be granted a border crossing without a freight unit. These special cases and terms under which this can be possible needs to be clarified with the authority.

Stay Safe!
